Raising self-awareness of dyslexic language learners

Professional Presentation
Dr. Anne Margaret Smith, Co-author, ENGLISH SOUNDS FUN
Successful language learning depends on knowing what works for us - and what doesn't - especially for dyslexic learners. This talk considers why and how we should enable our learners to get to know themselves better.

Teach Cambridge Learn English

Dimitris Maroulis, Teacher, Director of Studies, Cambridge English Presenter
Cambridge English Language Assessment

In collective thinking Cambridge English is just an assessment tool, an examination body which offers highly accredited language qualifications. What most of the learners do not know is that Cambridge English sets the standards for an exciting pedagogical ecology. In other words, when you are prepared for a Cambridge English exam there are some fascinating prerequisites that shape the way and the quality of your language learning. Some of the means to satisfy these prerequisites are presented in this session alongside a number of examples that show how easy, flexible but also enjoyable Cambridge learning and teaching can be.
